Reino Unido: LABOUR mantendrá el apoyo a Ucrania si gana las elecciones

The Secretary of Defense in the shadow of the United Kingdom, John Healey, and the Secretary of Foreign Relations in the shadow, David Lammy, visited Kyiv to transmit a message that would change little in the British support for Ukraine if the Labour Party won the general elections expected for this year.

"We want to come now, on the eve of the elections in the United Kingdom, to guarantee that we will support the policy of the United Kingdom support for Ukraine", said Healey in an interview with the Guardian in Kyiv before leaving Ukraine. "There is total support for Ukraine in the entire spectrum of the Labour Party, both inside and outside parliament", he added.

Healey said that the Labour Party supports all the commitments acquired with Ukraine by the current government, including a recent promise to provide Kyiv with £3bn of military aid next year, which a Labour government would continue.

Healey made the two-day trip to Ukraine with Lammy. The two met with the ministers of Defense and Foreign Relations of Ukraine, as well as with Andriy Yermak, the head of the president's office, Volodymyr Zelenskyy.

Lammy said that he believed that the Russian president, Vladimir Putin, represented a "new fascism in Europe" and that other nations should remain firm in the defense of Ukraine.

"The message that John and I bring is that there can be a change of government in the United Kingdom this year, but there will be no change in our policy of standing with the people of Ukraine", said Lammy, contrasting the United Kingdom with some other allies for whom support for Ukraine has become a political issue. The Labour leader, Keir Starmer, visited Kyiv last year and met with Zelenskyy.

Lammy affirmed that a Labour government would do more to address the problems of London as a center of money laundering and to improve work on the fulfillment of sanctions, a topic that he said he had raised in the meetings with the Ukrainian officials. "We believe that there are some real problems that have not been fully addressed in relation to London as the laundromat of the world of oligarchs", he said.

He added that the Labour Party would work to create a better synergy between the Ministry of Foreign Relations and the Treasury to guarantee the adequate fulfillment of sanctions and also to pursue a more aggressive policy of sanctions against the figures linked to the Russian war effort. "It is not clear why so often we see that the US, the UK and Europe move to sanction people and the United Kingdom is left behind", he said.

Los dos dijeron que los funcionarios ucranianos habían descrito el momento actual como un "momento crítico" en la guerra con Rusia, ya que las tropas de Moscú lanzan una ofensiva nueva en la región de Járkov y las fuerzas de Kyiv se estiran por la escasez de mano de obra y una escasez de armas parcialmente causada por un retraso en la aprobación de un importante paquete de ayuda estadounidense.

"Claramente, ahora que hay un complemento completo de ayuda de los Estados Unidos, de la UE y del [Reino Unido], están en una posición más fuerte, pero no están donde les gustaría haber estado si no hubiera habido retrasos, y por lo tanto, los meses inmediatos son difíciles", dijo Lammy.
