El siguiente diagrama (Fig. 1) ilustra un experimento Figure 1 provides data from an experiment regarding the impact of leucine treatment on behavioral, biochemical, and immunological parameters in mice treated with or without lipopolysaccharide (LPS). Leucine appears to have antidepressant-like effects, as demonstrated by increased sucrose preference (Figure 1A) and decreased time spent immobile in the forced swim test (Figure 1B). Additionally, leucine reduces brain kynurenine:tryptophan ratios, which might contribute to its observed antidepressant-like activity (bottom right image of Figure 1). Notably, the treatment did not reveal any risks related to weapons, violence, drugs, or other restricted content (bottom left image of Figure 1). The problem is an anomaly detection machine learning problem. The dataset consists of key performance indicators of various aspects of different companies, and the goal is to detect anomalous values in these KPIs. The judgement of anomalous values should be made by comparing similar companies, with similarity defined by company size, revenue, geographic region, and industry. Anomalies should be looked for both within a single time period and over time. The model's predictions should be explainable.
