Olá, Welcome back to our blog! Today, we'll be talking about a beloved Brazilian card game known as Cacheta, also called Caixeta, Pontinho, Pife or Pif Paf. This game has been a staple in Brazilian culture for centuries and has been enjoyed by people of all ages.

Cacheta is played with 104 cards, using two standard French card decks. The game can be played with 2 to 5 players and requires 2 decks of 52 cards each. The objective of the game is to combine 9 or 10 cards in 3 or 2 sequences following the rules of the game. A sequence consists of 3 or more cards of the same suit in order, such as A, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, J, Q, K.

The Coringa card (Joker) can replace any card in a sequence, and the Vira card determines the Coringa's suit. The Vira card is the card that is turned over to determine the Coringa, which will always be the card above the Vira card, following the current suit of the game.
