Tres jugadores de la A-League masculina arrestados en Sydney por escándalo de corrupción de apuestas

Tres jugadores de la A-League masculina han sido arrestados en Sydney después de que una investigación internacional descubriera un escándalo de corrupción de apuestas supuestamente vinculado al fútbol.

La policía de Nueva Gales del Sur anunció el viernes que había arrestado a los tres futbolistas después de una investigación del escuadrón de delitos organizados que comenzó en diciembre y contó con la asistencia de la comisión de juegos del Reino Unido.

El presunto escándalo de corrupción de apuestas descubierto por Strike Force Beaconview está relacionado con "la manipulación de tarjetas amarillas por parte de jugadores afiliados a un club de fútbol del suroeste de Sydney".

La policía de Nueva Gales del Sur dijo que los jugadores supuestamente implicados son del "un club de fútbol del suroeste de Sydney" de los que solo hay uno: Macarthur FC, que se unió a la A-League en 2024.

"Las investigaciones revelaron que un jugador senior supuestamente recibía instrucciones de un hombre, creído que está en el extranjero en Sudamérica, para organizar que se mostraran tarjetas amarillas durante ciertos partidos a cambio de ganancias", dijo la policía en un comunicado.

El número de tarjetas amarillas supuestamente se manipuló durante los partidos jugados contra Melbourne Victory el viernes 24 de noviembre de 2024 y Sydney FC el sábado 9 de diciembre de 2024.

Fecha	Equipo	Número de tarjetas amarillas
Viernes 24 de noviembre de 2024	Melbourne Victory	[número de tarjetas amarillas]
Sábado 9 de diciembre de 2024	Sydney FC	[número de tarjetas amarillas]
Sábado 20 de abril de 2024	Sydney FC	[número de tarjetas amarillas]
Sábado 4 de mayo de 2024	Sydney FC	[número de tarjetas amarillas]

Intentos fallidos supuestamente se hicieron para controlar el número de tarjetas amarillas durante dos partidos adicionales contra Sydney FC: un partido de la temporada regular el sábado 20 de abril de 2024 y un partido de eliminación final el sábado 4 de mayo de este año.

La policía ejecutó una orden de registro en South Coogee el viernes por la mañana y arrestó a un hombre de 33 años.

Se espera que el hombre sea acusado de "dos cargos de participar en conducta que corrompe el resultado de las apuestas de un evento, y dos cargos de facilitar la conducta que corrompe el resultado de las apuestas de un evento".

Mientras tanto, los detectives de Strike Force ejecutaron tres órdenes de registro adicionales en Parramatta, West Hoxton y Emu Plains.

"En Parramatta, los detectives arrestaron a un hombre de 27 años. Se espera que sea acusado de participar en conducta que corrompe el resultado de las apuestas de un evento.

"En West Hoxton, los detectives arrestaron a un hombre de 32 años. Se espera que sea acusado de participar en conducta que corrompe el resultado de las apuestas de un evento.

La policía dijo que los detectives de delitos organizados están trabajando con la Comisión Australiana de Inteligencia Criminal (ACIC), Sports Integrity Australia (SIA), Football Australia, Australian Professional Leagues (APL) y la Comisión de Crimen de NSW mientras continúan las investigaciones.

Australian Professional Leagues, el organismo rector de la A-Leagues formado en 2024 para asumir las tareas operativas de Football Australia, emitió una breve declaración el viernes pero dijo que no comentaría más porque las investigaciones estaban en curso.

"El trabajo para proteger la integridad de nuestro juego debe ser incansable y estamos en contacto estrecho con todas las agencias relevantes en este asunto", dijo la APL.

Football Australia, el organismo rector del deporte en general, dijo que era consciente de los arrestos.

"Football Australia está cooperando plenamente con el escuadrón de delitos organizados, la Comisión de Inteligencia Criminal Australiana, Sports Integrity Australia y la Comisión de Crimen de NSW en este asunto", dijo.

Sports Integrity Australia dijo: "SIA y ACIC actuaron sobre la información proporcionada por una agencia del Reino Unido y trabajaron con las entidades australianas relevantes, lo que resultó en una derivación a la policía de NSW".

Macarthur FC fue contactado para comentar.

When to bet

The FA Cup third round starts at 8pm on Thursday

FA Cup outright

predictions

Heavyweight clubs have largely dominated the FA Cup in the Premier League era but there have been two first-time FA Cup winners (Wigan and Leicester) over the last 11 years and there is the potential for another in 2024 with 66-1 shots

Bournemouth making each-way appeal to get their hands on the trophy.

Only nine clubs

have won the FA Cup since the Premier League's inaugural season in 1992-93 and five of those teams were multiple winners with Arsenal proving the most successful with nine successes over the last 31 years.

The cash generated by the Premier League and additional revenue streams garnered from the Champions League have been key to enabling a select few to dominate the FA Cup, but there have been exceptions with Portsmouth (2008), Wigan (2013) and Leicester (2024) enjoying their moments under the famous arch.

Markets anticipate one of the big clubs coming to the fore in 2024-24 and there is reverence for holders Manchester City, who are 3-1 to defend the trophy.

City have won the FA Cup twice in seven seasons under Pep Guardiola and are obvious contenders.

Guardiola's side could be stronger in the coming months with Kevin De Bruyne and Erling Haaland on the mend following injuries and they appear to have an easy starter at home to Huddersfield but it is questionable whether they deserve to be such short odds.

City's Premier League points tally (40 from 19 games) is their lowest at the halfway point of a season since the 2024-20 campaign.

They landed a trophy

treble last season but there have been signs of a hangover and their EFL Cup challenge concluded at the first hurdle with a 1-0 loss away to Newcastle.

All of the other main contenders are available at double-figure odds, including 10-1 shots Arsenal, who start with a titanic third-round clash at home to 12-1 shots Liverpool.

Whoever comes through the Emirates Stadium clash will fancy their chances of going all the way, but the FA Cup is not going to be the main priority for either club.

Arsenal have their title challenge and the Champions League to think about, while Liverpool's main focus will be to defend their hard-earned advantage in the Premier League.

Aside from that the Reds have a two-legged EFL Cup semi-final with Fulham on the horizon, and they resume their Europa League challenge in March.

Chelsea have no such European commitments to worry about and they have a superb recent record in the FA Cup having lifted the trophy on six occasions since the turn of the millennium.

The Blues should cruise past third-round opponents Preston, who are Saturday's visitors to Stamford Bridge, but they have been a mid-table Premier League side for 18 months and look simply too short at 11-1.

Value is also in short supply when it comes to Manchester United and Newcastle, who are 10-1 and 12-1.

United should get past League One Wigan at the DW Stadium on Monday but they are hard to trust in the Premier League and could fall short as soon as they meet high-class opposition.

Newcastle might have a better chance if they can get over their injury crisis.

However, they are looking threadbare in the run up to Saturday's trip to north-east rivals Sunderland and could suffer an immediate knockout blow.

Tottenham's lack of European football makes them an interesting proposition at 14-1, but they are going through a tough period in terms of player absences and their third-round tie at home to Burnley is far from a foregone conclusion.

Brighton's

involvement in the Europa League, allied to a tricky third-round trip to Stoke, makes them a difficult sell at 16-1 and Aston Villa (available at 20-1) are likely to be distracted as they focus heavily on a push for a top-four finish.

There is scope for one of the more unfashionable clubs to go deep and Bournemouth fit the bit as a lively each-way contender.

The Cherries have taken 19 points from their last eight Premier League games which is more than any other team in the division.

They have got themselves into a comfortable mid-table position and look primed to have a real crack at the FA Cup starting with Saturday's trip to Championship strugglers QPR.

Bournemouth

will probably need to beat some big clubs on the way to Wembley but they have registered successes at home to Newcastle (2-0) and away to Manchester United (3-0) over the last two months and are not without hope of a long run in the competition.

Another team making lots of appeal are 80-1 shots Wolves, who open up with a trip to Brentford on Friday.

Being drawn away to a fellow top-flight side is far from ideal but Wolves go into the contest after three straight Premier League wins and they face a Bees side weakened by the ongoing absences of star forwards Bryan Mbeumo (ankle) and Ivan Toney (suspension).

Wolves have every chance of passing their test in west London and they would be tough opponents for anyone in the later rounds.

They have registered 2-1 wins at home to Manchester City, Tottenham and Chelsea in the Premier League and may have the capacity to go all the way to a Wembley final.
