A Brazilian babysitter, Juliana Magalhaes, has been arrested and accused of murdering her employer, Christine Banfield, in a mansion in Virginia, USA. Juliana claims that she and Brendan Banfield, Christine's husband, were in a relationship and had planned the murder. The police have found evidence that contradicts Juliana's story, including a profile of Christine on a fetish website and conversations between Christine and a man named Joseph Ryan, who was also found dead at the scene. The police believe that Juliana and Brendan had a plan to eliminate Christine and are investigating the case further. Brendan has refused to answer most questions during his deposition, and a grand jury will be convened in April to continue the case.

The investigation has uncovered several inconsistencies in Juliana's story, including the fact that the murder weapons were not consistent with the initial claim of self-defense. The police have found that Juliana and Brendan had purchased new phones and a gun months before the murder. Furthermore, they have discovered that Juliana and Brendan were in a relationship and had been seen together often.
