Impacto Ambiental do Conflito entre Israel e Hamas no Gaza

Mais de oito meses de luta entre Israel e Hamas destruiu edifícios e infraestrutura f12 bet f12 bet toda a Faixa de Gaza, deixando mais de 39 milhões de toneladas de lixo e exacerbando uma crise de saúde já grave lá, de acordo com uma avaliação preliminar do impacto ambiental do conflito divulgada pelo Programa das Nações Unidas para o Meio Ambiente (PNUMA) na terça-feira.

Na última de uma série de relatórios de agências das Nações Unidas que esclarecem a escala da devastação f12 bet f12 bet Gaza e os perigos à saúde causados pela guerra lá, o PNUMA descobriu que os milhões de toneladas de entulho continham munição não explodida, asbesto e outras substâncias perigosas, bem como restos humanos.

O PNUMA também descobriu que a guerra interrompeu "quase todas" as sistemas e serviços de gestão ambiental, criou novos perigos e disse que todas as fontes de água f12 bet f12 bet Gaza foram interrompidas, assim como as instalações de tratamento e eliminação de esgoto.

O relatório ambiental segue uma postagem nas redes sociais da semana passada da UNRWA, a principal agência das Nações Unidas para os palestinos, afirmando que, até o início de junho, 330 mil toneladas de lixo acumularam-se f12 bet f12 bet ou perto de áreas povoadas f12 bet f12 bet Gaza, "criando riscos ambientais e de saúde catastróficos". Também na semana passada, o Centro de Satélite das Nações Unidas relatou que cerca de 65% da rede rodoviária total f12 bet f12 bet Gaza foi danificada até o mês passado.

"O colapso dos sistemas e instalações de esgoto, esgoto e resíduos sólidos teve grandes impactos no ambiente e nas pessoas", disse o relatório. Ele observou um aumento nas taxas de infecção respiratória aguda, diarreia entre crianças com menos de 5 anos, sarna, piolhos e icterícia relatados pela Organização Mundial da Saúde desde o início do conflito.

Kalienne Bradley: A Rising Star in the Literary World

Kalienne Bradley is a name to watch in the literary world. She has just published her first novel, "The Ministry of Time," a time-travel romance cum sci-fi comedy set in near-future London. The novel has received praise from writers such as Eleanor Catton and David Nicholls and has a TV adaptation in the works.

From Walthamstow to the World

Bradley was born and raised in Walthamstow, east London, where she still lives with her partner and cat. She grew up in a multicultural household, with a British father and a Khmer mother who moved to the UK during the Cambodian civil war. She spent her childhood sharing a bedroom with her twin sisters and her half-brother while her parents rented out the house.

"The Lucky Jumper" and The Ministry of Time

Bradley wrote "The Ministry of Time" by accident, as she puts it. She had been working on a "thankless, loveless" project for years but found herself drawn to time-travel stories during the pandemic. She immersed herself in the TV series "The Terror" and became fascinated by Lt. Graham Gore, a man of "great stability of character and sweetest of tempers." This fascination led her to create a "nerdy literary parlour game" online, which eventually turned into the novel.

Character

Lt. Graham Gore

Lieutenant from the battle of Naseby

Beautiful, foul-mouthed lesbian from the great plague of London

Unhappy aristocrat from the French Revolution

Soldier from the first world war

In "The Ministry of Time," Bradley explores the experience of immigrants in modern Britain by placing "expatriates from history" in modern London. She uses time-travel as a metaphor for the assimilation of immigrants into British society, as they are told they must assimilate, have certain values, and be productive for society. The hilarious and sparky one-liners afforded by the time-travel conceit make the novel a fun and thought-provoking read.

"Maybe this is the British-Cambodian novel I was supposed to be writing."

Through Gore, Bradley found a way to express her mother's past and the inherited trauma of Cambodia's history. Gore's realization that "they are all dead" and the world he knew is gone is a poignant reflection of the trauma experienced by refugees and immigrants. While Bradley has no plans to give up her day job, she is already deep into her second novel, an extension of her prize-winning short story.
