Explosión oída cerca del aeropuerto de Isfahan, Irán

Se escuchó una explosión cerca del aeropuerto en la ciudad iraní de Isfahan, informó la agencia de noticias semi oficial iraní FARS a primera hora de la mañana del viernes, según fuentes locales.

La causa de esta explosión aún se desconoce.

El sitio web de seguimiento de vuelos Flight Radar 24 mostró que varios vuelos fueron desviados sobre el espacio aéreo iraní temprano el viernes.

Se contaron al menos ocho vuelos.

FARS informó que la explosión se escuchó en la ciudad de Ghahjaworstan, noroeste de Isfahan, según fuentes locales.

Ghahjaworstan se encuentra cerca del aeropuerto de Isfahan y de la "octava base de caza de la Fuerza Aérea", según FARS.

También la televisora iraní Press TV informó que se escuchó una explosión "cerca de la ciudad central iraní de Isfahan", añadiendo que la causa de la explosión aún no es conocida.

Los informes sobre la explosión se producen horas después de que el ministro de Relaciones Exteriores de Irán, Hossein Amir-Abdollahian, dijera que si Israel emprende cualquier acción militar adicional contra Irán, la respuesta será "inmediata y al más alto nivel".

Sus comentarios se producen en medio de un ataque sin precedentes de Irán contra Israel la semana pasada que Teherán dijo que era represalia por un supuesto mortal ataque aéreo israelí contra el consulado iraní en Siria - colocando la región en el filo ya que Israel prometió contraatacar.

Ésta es una historia en desarrollo y será actualizada.
