In American tables, the "00" increases the casino's advantage. In sistema casa de apostas a table with only one zero, the casino's advantage is 2,7%. In sistema casa de apostas a table with two zeros, the casino has an advantage of 5,26%

Some French tables apply rules that generally help the players. The rules "La Partage" and "En Prison" are applied when there are outside bets in sistema casa de apostas par or impar, red or black and high or low, and they are also applied when the ball falls on zero. They are similar in the sense that the players lose only half of their bets. The players cannot leave sistema casa de apostas bet on the table for another round with the rule La Partage. If a player loses, he can collect half of sistema casa de apostas bet on the rule En Prison, or leave half of it on the table for the next round with the La Partage.

In all roulette (and in sistema casa de apostas all the games inside the casino, for the sake of truth), the house always has an advantage. All bets in sistema casa de apostas both the French and the American pay probabilities that "would be" true "se" only the 36 numbers were on the roulette. The advantage of the casinos comes, then, from the 0 - and the 00 in the USA. There are theories that say that there are ways to improve your probabilities, but they don't work. However, there are some variables that change the advantage:
