A 31-year-old woman died in the Mercy San Juan hospital in Sacramento in April 2024. The hospital sent her body to a storage facility and did not inform her mother or sisters of her death. She only learned of her death in the following month of April after trying to find her through a civil process against the hospital. In the process, presented at the beginning of this month, the family described the hospital's behavior as "malicious and outrageous" accusing the hospital of negligence in front of the family.

"The Mercy San Juan hospital failed its most fundamental duty to notify the family of Jessie's death," says the lawsuit.

Rachel Reeves promete fechar a lacuna salarial de gênero "uma vez por todas" e fazer o trabalho flexível a norma se ela se tornar a primeira chanceler do Reino Unido

In an interview with the Guardian, the Labour Party's shadow chancellor said she wanted to break the "glass ceiling in politics" and felt a "great responsibility" to use the Treasury to improve the position of women across the UK, including ensuring they are properly paid in the workplace.

Trabalho flexível e fechamento da lacuna salarial de gênero

A Labour government would make flexible working the norm from day one for all workers, except where it is not reasonably practicable, while large firms with more than 250 employees would be required to publish and implement plans to close the gender pay gap.

Reeves said she wanted to pull other political levers, including the creation of more local nurseries, school and club breakfast clubs, free school breakfasts in primary schools in England, a review of parental leave in the first 12 months of government and working with companies to name more female executives.

Lacuna salarial de gênero no Reino Unido

The gender pay gap in the UK is currently 14.3%, according to the TUC, and it would take 20 years to close if it continues to fall at the same rate. It is worse in some sectors, such as finance, banking, law and education.

Reeves said she was inspired by influential women trade unionists, including Barbara Castle, who introduced the Equal Pay Act, Harriet Harman, who introduced the Equality Act, and Ellen Wilkinson, one of the first women trade unionists in parliament.

Reeves disse: "Eu sinto como se estivesse sport galera bet é confiável muitos aspectos, estando nos ombros delas, e da mesma forma que elas fizeram conquistas para as mulheres, eu quero fazer o mesmo."

"Na posição de chanceler, acredito que o maior impacto que posso fazer nas vidas das mulheres comuns, mulheres que vão para o trabalho, é fechar a lacuna salarial de gênero uma vez por todas. Isso é o que estou determinado a fazer."
