If we had the luxury of never needing to worry about running out of chips, perhaps we would have passed up on the marginal opportunity that faces us in favour of a much stronger situation. Unfortunately, this is not how tournament poker works. We can't go around playing individual hands in isolation. We have to seriously consider something that isn't a factor for cash game players - our tournament life.

The best decision at a tournament table is always going to take into account the effective stacks and the blind-levels. We are interested in how "healthy" our stack is relative to the blinds, which will help to dictate our strategy. If only there was a formula we could use to help us calculate this...

Actually, there is – it's commonly referred to as "M-ratio" or just "M" for short.
