Bolsonarist politicians use social networks to share false information about intersex boxer Imane Khelif

Bolsonarist politicians have used social networks to share false information about Algerian boxer Imane Khelif. The parliamentarians referred to the athlete - who is intersex - as a transsexual woman or "biological man" to question her participation in the Paris 2024 Olympics, after the boxer's victory in the first round of the women's boxing category up to 66kg.

Understanding intersex and trans issues

Intersex people are born with sexual characteristics that do not fit the typically available definitions for male or female bodies. This can include traits of sexual anatomy, reproductive organs, hormonal patterns and/or chromosomes.

On the other hand, a transsexual person has a gender identity different from the biological sex assigned at birth. In this case, a trans woman is the person who identifies as female, although she was born biologically as part of the male sex and gender.

Italian boxer Angela Carini's statements

After the fight, Italian boxer Angela Carini, Khelif's opponent, said she gave up the fight due to nose pain, denying any relation to the condition of the opponent. "I entered the ring and tried to fight. I wanted to win," she explained.

Politician Shared content

Deputy federal
Nikolas
Ferreira
(PL-MG) Shared a video showing a segment of the fight this Thursday. He claims, without any basis in the boxer's own statements, that Carini gave up the fight after finding a "biological man hitting her face much harder". In another moment of the recording, the parliamentarian refers to the Algerian as a "trans" person.

Senator
Eduardo
Girão
(PL-RJ) Shared an image of Carini crying after the fight and wrote that it was "shameful to see a biological man hitting a woman with people watching and finding it good". Girão also shared a post by volleyball player and Olympic medalist Tandara Caixeta, a candidate for city councilor in São Paulo by the PL. She wrote that "we are in an era that pays to watch a man breaking a woman's nose and clapping". Tandara also wrongly stated that the winning boxer would be a "trans woman".
